Optional Freeze-Dried Antler Customization

Dried Velvet is still a raw product that must be either burned or stripped of fur to remove any possible remaining contaminants. Quick Flame removal of velvet fuzz is one common method. Using a propane torch, the fuzz can be burned off leaving the skin to be used in alcohol or steeping products. A small loss of weight occurs during the process.

Dried velvet antler is usually used as wafers in salads or soups. However, one would need to remove the fuzzy skin prior to use. You can do that, or if you would like, we can do that. A +/- 5% loss of weight occurs during the stripping process (initial weight of the antler will still be charged for).

Sliced Freeze-Dried Velvet

Antler will be sliced per your specifications. Without customization, antler will be cut into 10" sticks. Some loss of antler weight will occur due to dust created by the slicing process.

$12.50 PER LB. sliced

Labor charge only; this does not include the base price of the velvet antler

Stripped Freeze-Dried Velvet Antler

Some loss of antler weight will occur due to dust created by the slicing process. Unless specified, we will retain the fuzzy skin after stripping has been completed.

$32.00 PER LB. stripped

Labor charge only; this does not include the base price of the velvet antler

Stripped Freeze-Dried Velvet Antler Wafers

Once velvet antler is stripped, it can be cut into wafers for easy human use. A small loss of weight occurs during the process due to the creation of saw dust. The thinner the wafer, the greater the loss.

Upon request, velvet antler will be sliced into 3/8" wafers.

Stripping must be done prior to slicing and that charge is not included in this cost.

$22.50 PER LB. sliced

Labor charge only; this does not include the base price of the velvet antler or cost of stripping
